

INDUSTRY STIRRED BY APPALLING LOSS

All Branches Represented
At Mass Meeting In Philadelphia.

SUPREME EFFORT TO HALT STRIKE

Return of McNichol Awaited.
Police Charged With Brutality.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., March 11.—How to end Philadelphia's street-car strike and thereby stop the general strike, which has literally paralyzed business in the City of Brotherly Love, is the object of a great mass meeting of representatives of every civic organization in the city, which was called this afternoon.

The situation is critical. Bloodshed and rioting have become matters of daily occurrence, and each succeeding riot incites the lawless element to greater outbreaks.

Business At Standstill.
Business is practically at a standstill. Factories and great industrial plants are either closed down or seriously crippled by the walk-out of a larger proportion of their men.

Immense plants, unable to get out their spring samples and goods, threaten to close down indefinitely. The financial loss in the city already is appalling.

The Philadelphia Rapid Transit Company refuses to make any concessions. The officials of the company laugh at threats of a State wide strike. They say they are running more cars than at any previous period during the strike and are satisfied.

But merchants and manufacturers, stung by the loss of their own trade and by the daily sight of rioting, are demanding a settlement. How it can be brought about no one knows. Nothing tangible has been suggested.

Await McNichol's Return.
Peace-makers are awaiting the return from Florida Wednesday of State Senator James P. McNichol, who, as leader of the municipal political machine, can do more, it is believed, than any other man to end the strike if he will enter the controversy.

Headed by President Greenawald, of the State Federation of Labor, several of the leading union men in the State are coming from New Castle, to prepare for the threatened Statewide strike in fifteen days if the local unions throughout the State agree to call it.

Conditions in Philadelphia are growing worse instead of better as a result of the street car and the subsequent general strike. Lawlessness is becoming more evident, and the charge is made freely that, in large measure, police brutality is the cause of the feeling of resentment that may at any time be crystallized into an open revolt.

Loss Is Incalculable.
The strike leaders are daily increasing the figures they give out as representing the number of men on general strike. Today they declare that 125,000 men are out, and that the great efforts that have been made in the past few days about Cramps' ship yards, where 20,000 men are employed, will show tangible results. The loss sustained by the business interests of Philadelphia since the calling of the street car and the general strike is incalculable.

It is for that reason, the representatives of every commercial, fraternal, banking, business, and merchants' association in Philadelphia is participating in the meeting this afternoon to seek ways for ending the strike.

These men declare the real cause behind the general strike—the street car strike—has been dwarfed into insignificance by the result.

While both Mayor Reayburn and Director of Public Safety Clay deny they fear for their safety, it is noticeable today that the police guards through the corridors of the city hall have been doubled.

A potent factor that may lead to the ending of the strike from a hitherto unexpected quarter is the tremendous fall in value of the Rapid Transit Company's stock, which yesterday dropped $3 a share on the Philadelphia Stock Exchange, selling as low as 19½, a decline of $7 since the strike began. More than 25,000 shares were dumped on the market.

VIOLENCE MARKS
TRENTON STRIKE

TRENTON, N. J., March 11.—Much disorder and some violence marks the second day of Trenton's trolley strike, due largely to the importation of strike-breakers, which resulted in a serious riot, with shooting, last night. The company is running a few cars, including one car marked "U. S. Mail," on the suburban lines.

Several arrests were made this morning for stoning cars. The mayor has issued a proclamation asking the public to assist in maintaining order. He will swear in special policemen and arm them unless peace is maintained.

Both the strikers' committee and the company claim to be confident today of ultimate victory. Fewer cars are being run today than yesterday and fewer people are riding in them. Many labor organizations are boycotting the cars.
